Interim Headteacher's

Lindridge St Lawrence CE Primary School 9th February

Update

Dear Parents/Carers,

What a purposeful and uplifting week it was last week at Lindridge. On Monday we welcomed Jess Blakeman from Worcestershire County Council for a whole-school writing review, and it was a genuinely valuable day. Jess was able to capture a wealth of rich writing opportunities happening in Reception's continuous provision, and across the rest of the school she saw calm, focused classrooms where children were working collaboratively and with real pride. We will now be reviewing and updating our writing curriculum, ready to launch the next phase after half term.

Alongside this, there have been so many other successes to celebrate. Several children have visited my office to share fantastic pieces of work and have proudly received their Headteacher Awards. It has also been wonderful to see how quickly our reading culture is growing—some children are already on their third library book of the term. Keep reading, everyone; it truly is the best thing.

Many thanks

Mrs Helen Hadley

Key Information

World Book Week

This year our theme is books about food, recipe books and cooking. To focus our learning on this theme, we have the amazing poet and author A F Harrold coming into school on 24th February to work with ALL children from Nursery to Year 6 and we are going to be focusing in on his poetry anthology: Midnight Feasts. Each class starts their 2-week poetry writing unit today!

On World Book Day (Thursday 5th March) we will all be dressing up in school as food, chefs, kitchen utensils! Whatever you fancy that is food related. You could even just wear an apron! On World Book Day, send in your favourite family recipe – we are going to make a giant Lindridge recipe book!

COMPETITION: Using a kitchen utensil – a wooden spoon – transform your spoon into your favourite book character! We will display your spoons in the library (but of course you are welcome to take them home too if you'd rather). Prizes will be given out.

Highlights of the week!

Important Information

OWLETS

When I popped in to talk to Owlets last week, they were all enjoying tucking in to their tasty lunches!

Class Attendance Week Beginning 02.02.26
